Dear

I am writing to acknowledge receipt of your email dated 2nd April 2022 (received into our office 4th April) requesting information under the Freedom of Information Act (2000) regarding Areola Micro pigmentation.

The University Hospitals of North Midlands Trust is committed to the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

However, the NHS is facing unprecedented challenges relating to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic at the current time. Understandably, our resources have been diverted to support our front-line colleagues who are working tremendously hard to provide care for our patients, and to those in need of our services.

We strive to be transparent and to work with an open culture. But at this time, whilst care of our patients and the safety of our staff takes precedent, it is likely that responses to some requests for information will be delayed. We apologise for this position in advance, and will endeavour to provide you with as much information as we can, as soon as we are able.

The Information Commissioners Office has recognised the current situation in the NHS.

As of 1st November 2014 University Hospitals of North Midlands NHS Trust (UHNM) manages two hospital sites – Royal Stoke University Hospital, and County Hospital (Stafford). Therefore the response below is for the two sites combined from that date where appropriate.

Q1 Does the Trust still offer an areola micro pigmentation service to ladies who have had breast reconstruction as a result of a mastectomy due to a breast cancer?

I.e. the use of semi-permanent make up techniques to give the appearance of a nipple on the reconstructed breast?

A1 The Nipple micro pigmentation / Tattooing service had been suspended since the start of the pandemic due to staffing and resource pressures and in the current recovery phase, the plan is to restart the service in the next couple of months
