Dear

I am writing in response to your email dated 1st October 2019 (received into our office 2nd October) requesting information under the Freedom of Information Act (2000) regarding acute coronary syndrome.

As of 1st November 2014 University Hospitals of North Midlands NHS Trust (UHM) manages two hospital sites – Royal Stoke University Hospital, and County Hospital (Stafford). Therefore the response below is for the two sites combined from that date where appropriate.

Q1 My enquiry is what point of care test is used in your Trust to measure troponin in patients with suspected acute coronary syndrome?

Primarily whether you use a point of care test in A+E and what point of care test is used, such as if it is a high sensitivity troponin or one of the earlier point of care assays.

A1 No point of care testing is carried out within the emergency department for Troponin. These tests are carried out in the laboratory.
